

PORTFOLIO

With solid experience in digital and print design, branding, and art direction, I support organizations in structuring and expressing clear, coherent visual identities aligned with their positioning. My work focuses on translating brand DNA into meaningful visual systems, combining creative vision with strategic consistency across all communication channels.

Used to fast-paced environments within design, marketing, and digital agencies, and supported by an entrepreneurial background, I develop tailored graphic concepts adapted to each project's context and objectives. My approach is grounded in listening, analysis, and design rigor, ensuring relevance, clarity, and long-term visual coherence.

I am eager to contribute my expertise in brand identity and visual communication and to actively participate in the development of thoughtful, well-structured, and distinctive design projects.

Paris Saint-Germain

My collaboration with Paris Saint-Germain, an internationally recognized professional football (soccer) club, began in 2007 while I was employed at SPORTFIVE. In September 2012, after one year as an independent designer, the club entrusted me with the creation of visual and prospecting materials for its Sponsorship Department.

Since 2013, I also contribute to the development of visual identities and communication assets for the newly launched PSG Academy. Over time, other entities, including the International Development Department and QSI, relied on my expertise for various strategic projects.

I invite you to discover a selection of my work developed across the club's activities, reflecting a shared commitment to excellence, ambition, and passion.

Sports, culture and much more

Giving meaning and enhancing brand identity guide my approach. Trained initially as a web and print graphic designer and later as an art director, I support organizations in strengthening their visual image to build authentic connections with their audiences. Accustomed to purpose-driven sectors — sports, culture, craftsmanship, and recruitment — I draw on this energy to infuse each project with renewed creativity.
